

Alessandro Sinatra

Graduated at L. Bocconi University of Milan and then specialized in Operative research at the Department of Statistics of the same university.

Started his career as lecturer at IRI management business school. After four years joins Dalmine company as responsible of recruitment and executive education, then responsible of Organizational development and then director of Organization and Strategic Planning. Finally, responsible for strategic planning procedures at the holding (the IRI Group).

Since 1975, alongside managerial activity he has held different teaching positions at the University of Bari, Padova and Bocconi University.

In 1981 he intensified academic activity at the Bocconi University as Professor in Strategic Management as well as Director of the Strategic Management Department at Bocconi Business School.

In 1992 he became Associate Dean for international development of Bocconi Business School. In this period he is also in charge of different international research projects.

In 1995, Chair of Strategic Management at Cattaneo University in Castellanza, become member of the Board Committee of the University and President of the Logistic and Transports Interuniversity Research Centre. From 1996 to 1999 he is Rector at Cattaneo University.

Till 2007 is Director of the Department of Business Economics of Cattaneo University and Director of the PhD Programme in Management of Small and Medium Enterprises by the same university.

From 2000 to 2007 he was the Scientific Director of the School of High Administration for Regione Lombardia and Member of the Board for the Educational Policies of Regione Lombardia then Chairman of the Technical Scientific Committee for Regione Lombardia Education Strategy.

Member of the Italian academy of business studies, member of different scientific boards and consultant to national and international organizations. From 2009 is Chairman of the Regione Lombardia Committee for the evaluation of the candidates as administrators of the Regional Companies